

TRANSPORTATION EMERGENCY RESPONSE PRACTICE

AVAILABLE 24/7

The Transportation Practice Team established an Emergency Response Team to provide clients with crisis management assistance for unexpected incidents arising from the transportation of goods or cargo.

READY TO RESPOND

Emergency Response Team members are ready to respond to accident scenes across the Pacific Northwest on short notice in order to preserve critical evidence, interview witnesses, and communicate with law enforcement and the NTSB when the severity of the accident warrants such action.

INDUSTRY RELATIONSHIPS

We have contacted our network of accident reconstruction experts and independent adjusters across the Northwest to determine which ones are available during these unprecedented times, and we have commitments from our team of outside experts to be available for you as well.

RISK MANAGEMENT

Our Emergency Response Team provides clients with 24/7 risk management support and a timely and informed plan of action to minimize the value of any claims and our client's potential exposure.

TRANSPORTATION EMERGENCY RESPONSE PRACTICE

The current global spread of the COVID-19 has impacted every sub-sector of the Transportation Industry – from trucking, air travel, manufacturing and shipping.

With trucking being the primary mode of transportation for the majority of consumer goods, trucking is now crucial for keeping supply chains moving for companies transporting essential goods in these unprecedented times.

Williams Kastner's Transportation Emergency Response Team is ready to respond to help clients with any emergency response situations should they arise.
